

MANY CASUALTIES MARK ARMY AIR MAIL FLIGHTS

SCHOOL TEACHER,
UXORICIDE, GIVEN
NEW TRIAL TODAYSupreme Court Winds
Up February Term
With Decisions

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23—(AP)—A new trial was ordered today for Hubert Moor, Robinson school teacher under death sentence for the murder of his wife.

The Illinois Supreme Court reversed his conviction and remanded the case for another trial. Ending its February term, the court affirmed the death sentence given John Scheck for the killing of a Chicago policeman. Scheck is scheduled to die April 20.

A new trial also was given Edd Brewer, who is under death sentence for the slaying of Grady Smith, state policeman, and Chief of Police Dan Law of Harrisburg in 1932. His conviction was reversed and remanded for retrial.

Verdict Once Upheld
Moor was granted a rehearing by the Supreme Court after his conviction had once been upheld. At his trial he confessed that he killed his wife, Marjory, while returning from Indianapolis to Robinson. One of the reasons he gave was that she was not a good housekeeper.

In two other cases originating in Chicago, death sentences were upheld and electrocutions ordered for April 20. The convicted men are Joseph Francis, slayer of Joseph Hartel, driver of a milk wagon, and George Dale, who was a co-defendant with Eleanor Jarman, the "blonde tigress," in the investigation of the murder of Gustave Hoeh.

Term Upheld
The 60-year prison sentence of Walter Ewenow, Chicago, for slaying William Rumber, Chicago policeman, in 1930 was upheld. Rumber was killed during a saloon hold-up and Ewenow was convicted with John Senew of the killing.

The constitutionality of the judges' pension act, a case which has been before the Supreme Court for more than a year, was upheld. The point at issue was the request of William Dewold, who had served 24 years as Boone county judge, for a pension. He retired in 1922, and upon reaching the age of 65 in 1931, sought a pension under the law providing one half of the average annual salary while on the bench.

Payment Ordered
The Boone county Circuit Court issued a writ of mandamus directing payment of the pension. The county appealed the case, contending that the legislature cannot authorize extra compensation to a public officer after service has been rendered or contract made.

Objections of Marshall Field & Company to the 1930 tax assessment on the Merchandise Mart in Chicago were over-ruled by the Supreme Court.

The decision upheld the findings of the Cook county court sustaining a levy of $321,117.76 in addition to $55,501.62 already paid the company.

The conviction of Harrison Parker, sentenced to ten years in Joliet penitentiary for embezzling $100,000 from the North American Trust Co., at Chicago, was reversed. He was indicted for embezzling $349,000 and found guilty in August, 1932.

Injunction Sustained
Judgment of the Lake county Circuit Court was sustained in making permanent an injunction restraining the village of Barrington from disposing of sewage in Flint creek, which flows through the grounds of the Barrington Country Club. Judge Edward B. Shurtliff granted the injunction on a change of venue.

John Mack, alias Big McNamara, must return to Passaic, N. J., to face conspiracy charges, the court ruled in sustaining the findings of the Cook county Criminal Court.

Mack fought extradition on the ground that conspiracy is not a crime on the New Jersey statutes, and that the extradition papers honored by Governor Horner were not in correct order. He is charged with obtaining $30,000 by fraud in 1928.

Conviction of Jack Lieber, 26, for robbery with a gun by the Criminal Court of Cook county was reversed.

The court sustained the plea that the selection of the grand jury which indicted him had been illegally constituted.

The award of $20,144 to R. O. Ahlenius, Bloomington, from Bunn & Humphreys, Inc. wholesale grocery firm, by the Appellate Court today. Ahlenius, director and stockholder in J. F. Humphreys Co. claimed a loss sustained when the Humphreys Company merged with John W. Bunn & Co. Springfield, in 1928. The Appellate Court reversed the findings of the McLean county Circuit Court.

Damage Suit Remanded
Judgment of the Mason county Circuit Court and the Appellate Court denying Lucinda Holden $10,000 damages from Jack Schley, Frank Gilhaus, and P. A. Pugsley for the death of her husband A. T. Holden, in an auto crash near Bradford, Christian county, in September 1928 was reversed and remanded for retrial.Roger Touhy and Two of

Missing Virginia Child Found Tied to Tree Near One to Which
She Was Found Bound a Year Ago

Fredericksburg, Va., Feb. 23—(AP)—Fourteen-year-old Caroline Musante, sought as a kidnap victim, was found tied to a tree early today under circumstances strikingly similar to her disappearance a year ago. The girl was found by Department of Justice agents after a widespread search, started when she disappeared from her home yesterday. Her father, Leo Musante, told police he had found a note demanding $1500 or "Caroline's head will be sent to you."

Last year Caroline was reported kidnapped and was found bound to

Jurors Unanimous On Question of Guilt
of Kidnapers

Chicago, Feb. 23—(AP)—The law, after three trials, has put the finger on Roger Touhy, one of the last and most notorious of the dry era desperadoes.

A jury convicted Touhy and two others early today of the kidnaping of John (Jake the Barber) Factor, and fixed the prison sentences of all three at 99 years. Those convicted with him were Albert Kator and Gustav Schaefer—lessor fellows in a once mighty combine against law and order.

With today's verdict, authorities said, the last of the gangs which during prohibition gave Chicago an unwelcome reputation as a capital of crime has been destroyed. Only remnants of the "big shot" gangs remain.

Take no Chances
On Lacy's Suicide

Chicago, Feb. 23—(AP)—The state took no chances that John Lacy might kill himself, as did Charles W. Mayo his partner in a kidnap plot.

Lacy's belt, necktie, and shoestrings were removed as he was locked up in his cell last night, after corroborating Mayo's confession of their plans to kidnap E. P. Adler, Davenport banker and publisher. A special guard stood watch over him.

Mayo hanged himself to the bars in his prison cell an hour after Lacy was trapped.

remain, and their trail is kept constantly hot.

Al Capone, the original "number one public enemy," is serving a ten year Federal prison sentence for tax law violation. Others of the considerable company of crime lords are either in prison or dead by the hands of gangsters—William (Three-Fingered Jack) White, Killer and racketeer, dead; James (Pur) Sammons, serving a life term as an habitual criminal; and Gus Winkler, who aspired to gang leadership on the north side, slain; Murray Humphreys, the present "number one" public enemy, is a fugitive from justice.

Six Hours Deliberation

Touhy, Kator and Schaefer, in shackles heard the "bad news" shortly after midnight today when a Criminal Court jury, after six hours deliberation, returned its verdict. A previous trial ended in a jury disagreement. Before that, in St. Paul, Minn., Touhy was acquitted of a Federal charge of kidnapping William Hamm, Jr.

The verdict marked one of the few victories in state courts for the prosecution of major kidnapings. The others in recent crime history were the convictions of the kidnapers of August Luer, Alton banker and of James Hackett, Blue Island, gambler. The sentences in those cases ranged from life imprisonment to five years.

Unanimous on Guilt

The conviction of the Touhy gangsters came after a seven day trial.

The first ballot resulted in a unanimous verdict of guilty. The second was taken after arguments between the jurors as to what the sentence would be. Half of them were reported to have held out for the death penalty. A second vote, however, resulted in a unanimous verdict of 99 years in prison.

The state had asked for the death penalty "or at least 99 years" and unless the sentence is made invalid by a new trial or a reversal by the Supreme Court the Touhy men will go to prison to remain for at least 33 years—the required time before they would be eligible for parole.

NO OBSTRUCTION TO BONUS VOTE
IN HOUSE PLANS

Members Will Have Opportunity to Vote on March 12th.

Washington, Feb. 23—(AP)—The House today agreed to a bill on payment of the veterans bonus stayed clear today with decision by the Ways and Means committee against seeking to obstruct it.

With both Senate and House in recess, it remained for committees to dominate the Capitol.

Another of the few major incidents was discovery by Senate stock market investigators, in taking the past, that a score of corporations had over twenty billion dollars in the seething 1929 markets.

Before a House committee, meanwhile, executives and counsel for the New York Exchange were arguing against the Fletcher-Rayburn control bill on constitutional and economic grounds.

Adjourned

The Senate had agreed to recess on yesterday, but the House met briefly in early afternoon for eulogies to the late Representative Hooper of Michigan before adjourning out of respect. He died suddenly late yesterday.

The emergency bill to authorize the Army to carry the air mail in the interim before returning it to private contractors is expected to be passed without difficulty early tomorrow. The House then will take up the Agriculture Department appropriation.

It is desired, to pass the agriculture bill by Monday to get the earliest possible action on the $2,000,000 item for federal aid in grasshopper control, to set up distribution facilities for the poison before spring crop operations.

Could Delay Vote

On the bonus, the Ways and Means committee could report the bill favorably or unfavorably to the House and force its advocates to petition it out of the Rules committee and thereby delay a vote until probably too late for this session, as it did two years ago.

The forenoon decision against such a course is taken as final assurance that the vote forced by 145 names on a petition will take place.

Tangled Wreck All That Is Left Of Airmail Death Ship

A tangled heap of wreckage, torn silk, shattered wood, and twisted metal, is all that remains of the plane in which Lieut. Durward Lowry, airmail flier, crashed to his death in a wood near Deshler, O., first victim of the new era in mail carrying. The plane is shown here, with a curious throng gathered around it, during investigation of the accident. Lowry was thrown clear when his craft hit the trees and the wheels were hurled 50 feet. The plane was a one-seater Curtis O-39 biplane.

FROM INJURIES

Percy Wolfe, Sterling, Victim of Crash Last Tuesday

The funeral of Percy Wolfe of Sterling, a brother of Wayne Wolfe of this city, and a victim of an automobile accident Tuesday afternoon in which he received injuries which caused his death at the Sterling public hospital yesterday, will be held at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Trough Chapel in Sterling, Rev. G. H. Doremann, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church, officiating, and with burial in Riverside cemetery.

Wolfe's car left the road on route 40 about six miles north of Sterling, pinning him beneath it. Although he was alone and there were no witnesses to the accident, it is believed the accident was caused by the slippery pavement.

Besides his father, Wolfe is survived by his mother who resides in Dixon, two brothers, Wayne, Dixon, and Kenneth, Sterling, and a sister Celia, Chicago.

LEOPOLD MADE
BELGIAN KING
THIS MORNING

Brilliant Ceremonies Mark Coronation of New Monarch

Brussels, Feb. 23—(AP)—A new King of the Belgians, Leopold III, was enthroned today when the former Crown Prince took the oath of both houses of Parliament.

He officially became king, succeeding his father, the late Albert I, at the conclusion of the reciting of the oath at 11 o'clock this morning.

The 32-year-old monarch spoke the brief oath in French and repeated it in Flemish before the legislators and assembled dignitaries.

A splendid array of foreign representatives and diplomats in lavishly decorated "Chambers" of Deputies, cheered the new ruler with the same enthusiasm as did thousands of people who watched him on his ride to Parliament from the royal castle at Suburban Laeken.

Thousands of Belgians ecstatically shouting "Vive le Roi" and waving flags and handkerchiefs, hailed Leopold II on his triumphal ride.

Some sections along the brilliant route showed less enthusiasm than others, but there were no organized counter manifestations.

Scattered anti-royalist elements among the crowds which pressed in a solid, cheering, pushing throng along the streets were drowned out in the roar of acclaim.

Many Withdrawals
from Primary Tickets are Expected

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23—(AP)—Belief that there would be wholesale withdrawals by candidates who have filed petitions for the April primary was expressed today by attaches at the Secretary of State's office.

Numerous requests have been received for information about withdrawal procedure. The deadline is midnight tomorrow.

Reports were current at the State House that Julius Klein of Chicago would drop out of the Republican contest for Congress at-large, leaving seven in the field, and that Clyde P. Burgess of Bend would withdraw as a Republican candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction in favor of George A. Selters of Macomb.

LACY MAY HAVE BEEN INVOLVED
IN BANK THEFTS

Authorities Seeking Information About Plotter's Life

Chicago, Feb. 23—(AP)—New chapters in the criminal career of John Lacy were uncovered by prosecutors today as they prepared to ask the grand jury to indict him for kidnaping conspiracy.

More so after learning his partner in the bungled kidnap attempt, Charles W. Mayo of Birmingham, Ala., had committed suicide in a cell, Lacy was said to have given information which led authorities to suspect him of bank robbery.

Five years ago, Prosecutor Mal Coghlan said, Lacy deserted his wife and two children in Tinley Park, southwest of Chicago. Following that, he served a term in the North Dakota state prison for forgery.

Coghlan said he believed Lacy returned to Tinley Park a year ago and participated in a bank robbery. The prosecutor said he believed Lacy had never lived in Davenport, Ia., the home of E. P. Adler, newspaper publisher whom Mayo and Lacy selected as their first victim.

Elizabet Plot Failed

A bizarre plot to carry Adler out of the Morrison hotel here in a huge trunk was frustrated when Adler put up a fight and frightened away the would-be abductors.

Lacy used the name of Norman Wyman during his residence in Tinley Park, Coghlan said, and that probably was his true name.

We believe Lacy is a member of a prominent family in Fort Worth, Tex., Coghlan said. "His only request to authorities is that his family be kept in ignorance of the present case. We have agreed to that."

Coghlan said Lacy made his first visit to Davenport three weeks ago with Mayo, adding that neither of them appeared to have criminal connections in either Davenport or Des Moines.

"They planned to kidnap him the following day as he left his office for lunch. However, they were frightened away by a man appearing to be a detective who asked if they were looking for someone. They had an automobile parked outside the newspaper building with the motor running, in case an opportunity to kidnap Adler should develop. They got in the car and left after the supposed detective spoke to them."

Lacy, or Wyman, is 34 years old. He was paroled after serving nine months of a one to five year sentence in state prison at Bismarck, N. D. He was sent there from Valley City, N. D., on a sentence for forgery.

Police Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the State Attorney's office said he was convinced Lacy had nothing to do with a recent rumored attempt to kidnap Mayo.

CATTLE TESTING
LAW UPHELD BY HIGHEST COURT

Held Statute is in Interest of the Public Health

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23—(AP)—The state law requiring the testing of cattle for tuberculosis was held constitutional today by the Illinois Supreme Court in affirming the $500 assessed by the Henderson county Circuit Court against Carl Anderson, who refused to allow tests on his farm.

Under the law, owners of dairy or breeding cattle shall submit their stock to tests upon order of the Department of Agriculture with all direct expense paid by the state.

The manifest purpose of the statute here under consideration is to protect the public health," the court said. "Legislation in the interest of public health is a proper exercise of the police power of the state for the suppression and prevention of a disease deadly in its effects upon the human race and upon domestic animals. The state has the right to require dairy cows and breeding cows to be subjected to the tuberculin test."

Referring to contentions that herd owners were given no notice before tests were to be made, the court said, "that the keeping of tuberculous cattle is a continuing one and a constant source of danger and summary action is necessarily required to meet exigencies of the situation."

PETER AINSLIE,
CHURCH LEADER,
DIED THIS MORN

Was Internationally Known for Efforts for Church Unity

Baltimore, Feb. 23—(AP)—The Rev. Peter Ainslie, internationally known for his work in the interest of church unity and world friendship through the churches, died early today in a hospital here following two operations since Jan. 7. He was 66 years old.

Dr. Ainslie was a trustee of the Church Peace Union, founded by the late Andrew Carnegie, and was a delegate to the Church Peace Union conferences in Geneva in 1914 and 1920, in The Hague in 1919 and in Copenhagen in 1922.

From 1910 to 1925 he was president of the Association for the Promotion of Christian Unity and was president of the Christian Unity League in 1927. He often protested against military training, especially in colleges, lynchings and a divided Christianity.

Born in Dunsmuir, Va., and educated at Transylvania College, Lexington, Ky., Dr. Ainslie had been pastor of the Christian Temple here since 1891. He held doctor degrees from Yale, Drake and Bethany colleges.

His widow and two children survive.

Explosion in Cellar of Yonkers, N. Y. Theater, Kills Two and Injured 12 This Morn; Cause Undetermined

Yonkers, N. Y., Feb. 23—(AP)—An explosion in the cellar of the Proctor Theater shortly before noon today killed two men and injured twelve persons, several of the latter so seriously they are expected to die.

One of the dead is Patrick Whalen, motorcycle patrolman, burned to death attempting to rescue electrical engineers working in the building. The other is Carl Grubner, electrician. No performance was going on at the time of the blast.

Origin of the blast was not at once determined, but an early theory held by investigators was that escaping illuminating gas or sewer gas backed up into the cellar by snow and ice blocking sewer vents and mains.

The explosion was so severe that it ripped out the lobby of the theater, blew out the front of both the theater and an adjoining dress shop, wrecked an automobile parked at the curb and shattered the sidewalk and street in front of the building.

FOUR DEAD, TWO
HURT, 6 PLANES
LOST IN A WEEK

Undaunted Pilots Intent on Doing Job Successfully

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four army fliers have been killed, two severely injured and six planes demolished during the past week in connection with the air mail task turned over to the nation's fighting birdmen.

A fifth Army aviator also met death in a crash not linked with the air mail service.

Undaunted by the casualties, the Army, which took over its new job amid vicious storms and fog, was intent today on pushing the mail through.

The crashes reverberated on the floor of the House at Washington, where Rep. Hamilton Fish (Republican-New York) declared yesterday that it was "legalized murder" to send Army men through the skies with the mail without what he considered necessary training.

Mother Complains

The mother of one of the dead airmen also complained. Mrs. Dorothy Lowry Reisdorf of Detroit, whose son, Lieut. Durward O. Lowry, crashed to death in his mail plane near Deshler, O., yesterday said:

"Good as they are, these Selfridge Field fliers shouldn't have had to fly at night through winter storms over unfamiliar courses that it took months for commercial pilots to learn."

Army men said any commercial flier would have been killed if faced with the same conditions as Lowry.

Last Friday three Army pilots, flying to their air mail posts, were killed. Lieutenants Jean D. Grenier and Edwin D. White died when their ship fell in a canyon during a Utah snowstorm and Lieut. James Y. Eastman met death in Idaho. These accidents occurred before the Army actually started flying the mail.

Fifth Death Yesterday

The fifth death came yesterday when Lieut. Fred I. Patrick, who was not carrying air mail, crashed near Denison, Tex. He had expected to go to Shreveport, La., today to complete organization of the air mail field there.

Caught in weather thick with rain and fog, Lieut. Harold Delta, crashed in a field near Marten Station, Md., last night on his way from Newark, N. J., to Richmond, Va., with mail. He was carried to a hospital with severe head injuries.

Two forced landings marked the air mail service yesterday. Lieut. G. P. Hollstein, flying mail from Cleveland to Washington ran into sticky fog near Uniontown, Pa. His ship was smashed against a clump of trees but he escaped with a cut face. Another mail pilot, Lieut. James McCoy, landed at Woodland, Pa., with a burned out engine. He was not hurt.

Pilot Bailed
Out: Broke a Leg—

Fremont, O., Feb. 23—(AP)—Army air pilot Norman Burnett bailed out of his ship seven miles north of Fremont early today and suffered a broken left leg in his parachute descent. Burnett was out of Cleveland for Chicago. He did not have a load of mail with him.

He was found at 6 A. M. CST, by Irwin Bowersox, a farmer, three hours after the accident. Burnett said he encountered a blizzard, lost his bearings, and decided to take to his chute.

He thought he was far away from habitation, and failed to call out for help until daylight. When he started yelling Bowersox heard the cry, and responded with assistance, sending the flier in a motor car to Memorial hospital.

Fear Exposure
Hospital attendants said they were uncertain as to the full extent of the flier's injuries, but believed he was suffering from exposure and shock in addition to the fracture.

The flier came down on the Bowersox farm, and in reality, he was but a few hundred yards from the farm house when he fell.

The plane was not found immediately, but a group of farmers and rural officers started out in

Rep. Hooper, Mich.
Is Dead in Capital

Washington, Feb. 23—(AP)—Brief funeral services for Representative Joseph L. Hooper, of Battle Creek, Mich., who died last night, were planned for this afternoon before the body is taken to Michigan for burial.

Representative Carl E. Mapes of Michigan said the body would be taken to Battle Creek late this afternoon and that services would be held here Sunday afternoon. It was still undetermined who would accompany the body.

Hooper's colleagues from Michigan and other friends in the House and Senate planned to attend today's services.

Neurocalometer Service

It is vitally essential in the successful treatment of nervous diseases to be able to find the exact location of the nerve or nerves affected. The Neurocalometer is a very precise, delicate instrument created through research, for that purpose. Not only is it capable of locating the precise nerve involved, but also it is able to show when the trouble has been removed. The Neurocalometer examination is as vital to nerve conditions as is the X-ray to bone and deep tissue examinations. You owe it to yourself to have this test made.

The luck which carried Roger Houhy, the curly headed leader of the Touhy gang, through two other kidnapping trials—went steadily from bad to worse during the seven days of his second trial.
The day before it opened, two Touhy followers were seized in Baltimore. In the middle of the trial one of them—Isaac Costner, a Tennessee bad man who was imported for the kidnapping—confessed and implicated the others. Next day another—Walter A. Henriksen—followed his example, and admitted collecting the suitcase full of cash—$70,000 in 10 and 20 dollar bills—which Factor paid for his release.
The downfall of the Touhy gang was accomplished in two playful slaps from the proverbial long arm of coincidence. Touhy and Gustav "Gloomy Gus" Schaefer, two of the defendants, were captured in Elk-horn, Wis., after the kidnapping, because they bumped over a telephone pole with their car, and so encountered the local police. Costner, still with Basil Banghart, another still to go on trial for the kidnapping—was picked up in Baltimore because he failed to leave his automobile tail light on.
The jury grinned when the three Touhy gangsters offered their defense. It came from Banghart, nicknamed "The Owl" in honor of his blinking manner and his huge heart shaped face, who accused Factor of staging his own abduction to avoid extradition to England, where he is wanted in connection with a stock deal.
With Touhy and the two doomed to spend time remaining of their lives behind bars, the state embarked today on a relentless search to corral other members of the gang for the Factor kidnapping.
Asks Aid In Search
While Touhy, Kator and Schaefer raged in their cells, Prosecutor Houhy announced every state in the union would be asked to assist in hunt for Charles (Ice Wagon) Connors, Joe Silvers, and other members of Touhy's notorious band of desperadoes.
"They can't hide forever," Crowley said. "Some day soon they'll get the same medicine as the others."
Kator and Schaefer, steeled for the verdict, heard it with some calm, but not Touhy. He clawed at his lips, blanched, and finally went into such a rage that it left him nauseated.
In their cells today, the trio maintained loudly that they were innocent, despite the mountain of evidence placed against them during the trial.
Say They Were Framed
All declared they had been "framed by the Capone syndicate." Their attorney, William Scott Stewart, has maintained that "Capone gangsters in high places" brought the kidnapping allegation against them in order to remove the Touhys from underworld competition.
Crowley indicated Costner might never have to stand trial for the kidnapping, and that a recommendation of leniency probably would be made for him in other cases, including a $100,000 mail robbery charge. He said probably no charges would be made against Henriksen, a policeman who joined the Touhys as a $100 a week beer truck driver in the halcyon days of bootlegging.
No Mercy for "The Owl"
But Crowley indicated there would be no mercy for Banghart, captured with Costner in Baltimore recently. Banghart, allegedly refused to testify for the state, but insisted told on the witness stand his fantastic story of Factor "kidnaping himself" in order to make friends in the federal government and create sympathy in England, where he is wanted in a $700,000 stock fraud.
"If Banghart will plead guilty we'll make a recommendation for him—a recommendation for 99 years in prison," Crowley said. "We would consent to a lesser sentence under no circumstances."
Connors is wanted as a leader in the kidnapping plot. Silvers was named during the trial as a roadhouse gambling confederate who on midnight of last June 30 pointed

CAR IS RECOVERED

Mrs. Stanley Noble of this city left her Ford coach parked in front of the Louis Fish residence, at 1015 Fourth street last evening about 7 o'clock, leaving the motor running and the keys in the switch while she went into the house for a brief visit. Upon her return the car was gone and the police were immediately notified.
Chief VanBibber informed police of several surrounding towns while other members of the department searched for the car about the city. About an hour later Chief VanBibber discovered the car parked on Second street west of Peoria avenue, where it had been abandoned, and returned it undamaged to the owner.

Factor out to his abductors. Others wanted include "Porky" Dillon, machine gunner, and Andy McFadden, whose aged father was freed in an earlier Factor trial by a directed verdict of not guilty.

FROM OLD FAMILY

Howellton, Ala. Feb. 23—(AP)—Fred Mayo who hanged himself in a cell in Chicago yesterday where he was held for the unsuccessful attempt to kidnap E. P. Adler, wealthy Davenport, Iowa, publisher, was a native of this town.
Relatives and friends today identified photographs of the man as the member of one of the oldest families in the county. Resident also recalled that as a youth he sang in choirs here and in Gadsden where he was employed for a brief time after graduating from the Eowah county high school in 1925.
Two brother said today Fred had left here about three years ago for Pittsburgh, Pa., where he was informed he was manager of a shoe store.
Only recently a letter from Chicago informed them he was in "the shoe business" there.
No plans have been announced to return his body here.

Seek To Take

Army Off the Job—

Washington, Feb. 23—(AP)—A program brewed in the House of Representatives today to put the airmail pouches back in private hands.

Republican quarters hinted that when the emergency airmail bill is called in the House, probably before nightfall, an amendment will be offered. If approved, the amendment would take the Army off the mail-flying job quickly.
Such an amendment, however, faced plenty of trouble. The administration indicated it would oppose such action.

The emergency bill itself provides merely for a switching of funds and equipment for temporary Army hauling of the airmail. Debate has been limited to an hour and a half. The bill, however, is open to amendments, and there were expectations many would be offered.

To Seek New Bills

From another source, however, has come an even clearer evidence of a strong effort to turn the job of mail flying back to private carriers. Chairman Mead of the House Postoffice committee said yesterday that the committee is willing to consider letting "these (private) carriers come back and bid on new contracts."

The committee today voted to establish a fixed price per pound for airmail eliminating competitive bidding.

The figure, Chairman Mead said, will be fixed probably at around 2 mills per pound mile as against the 4.2 mills average for 1932.

"Under competitive bidding," he told newspapermen, "we are supposed to have had a number of companies getting together and agreeing who should make the lowest bid and what his bid should be. That brought us rates averaging 4.2 per pound-mile."

Under the new system, the rate automatically would be around 2 mills per pound mile with the best available carrier selected.
Representative Kelly (R. Pa.) author of the bill now before the committee, said this change would result in a reduction from the $19,000,000 spent for airmail in 1932 to around $9,000,000.

Mead added that the committee "probably will adopt an amendment permitting these contractors whose contracts have been cancelled to come back in the government service under very severe stipulations and restrictions."

Chairman Mead said he thought though he was not sure, that the administration's plans would coincide closely with his own, and that more than "cost-plus" pay would be given under such new contracts.
On the other side of the Capitol, Walter F. Brown, who as Postmaster-General in the Hoover cabinet approved most of the contracts for private flying of the mail which President Roosevelt has since cancelled, was given a friendly Republican in the Senate mail investigating committee today.

Farley Explains
Again in Address—

Durham, N. C., Feb. 23—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration was pictured by Postmaster General Farley here today as "having no desire or intention to work an undue hardship upon any employee of the commercial airlines of the country, or upon the stockholder of these airways" in connection with the annulment of air mail contracts.

He said legislation and plans were being worked out as rapidly as possible and he felt certain that once the public had all "the facts," which he explained it would have, the policy of the administration in its annulment would be thoroughly understood and the action approved.

Farley spoke at the dedication of the new Durham postoffice building.

The award of $9,600 to Mabel Bennett, Bureau county, for injuries received in a runaway in 1929 was reversed by the court. Mrs. Bennett was awarded damages by the Kewanee City Court from the Illinois Power & Light Corp., whose equipment she claimed caused the runaway.
The verdict of the Bureau county Circuit Court awarding $3,610 to Eli Pittman and his sisters for damages from the construction of state route 88 through their farms was sustained.

Car Builder Liable

Ruling of the First District Appellate Court that a manufacturer of an automobile is liable to one who purchases a car from a retailer for injuries caused by defective material or defective assembly was affirmed in the case of Nathan Roche, Chicago, against the Buick Motor Company. Roche was injured when his motor car crashed into a ditch when a cotter pin on the front brake assembly became loose. The accident occurred a short time after he had purchased the car. Justices Orr, DeYoung and Jones dissented.

Conviction of John and Louis Samaras, Chicago, of manslaughter for the death of John Protopapas in a fire alleged to have been started by the two Samaras was reversed and remanded. They were under sentences of one to 14 years in Joliet.

Similar action was taken in overruling the conviction in Green county Circuit Court of Harry P. Oberlin, Jerseyville, for the slaying of his wife, Clara.

The judgment of the Kankakee county Circuit Court ordering A. E. Anderson, president of the Belt Route Warehouse & Storage Company, to pay $10,000 or return 100 shares of stock to the company was reversed and remanded. The action was instituted by S. T. Jackson, J. Tolson, H. H. Whitmore, and J. Gerreste, stockholders in the company.

Want Will Interpreted

The court transferred to the Third District Appellate Court the request of the Peoples Bank of Bloomington as trustee for Edwin Hite and Helen L. Tregon for an interpretation of the will of Fred Wolkan, Jr., who died in 1927. Conviction of Robert Dalton, Harrisburg, for the murder of William Smith May 7, 1933, by the Saline county Circuit Court was reversed and remanded. Dalton was convicted with Henry Mayberry and Browder Price and was sentenced to 14 years in the Chester penitentiary.

The award of the Williamson county Circuit Court of $757.64 damages to Pat Murphy, former Assistant Police Chief of Herrin, for injuries received in a gun battle was reversed and remanded to the Industrial Commission to hear further evidence. The Industrial Commission denied Murphy compensation on the grounds he was not an employee of the city.

NE glorious fact about the Bible can never be disputed, namely, that every promise of God's tender affection and care for His children, every comforting assurance of His presence in time of trouble, every declaration of His ability to supply courage and strength to meet and overcome the seeming attacks of error, is applicable to each individual as his need arises; and each one can bring these promises to bear upon every phase of his human affairs, and can prove their truth by demonstration.

Sleep Is Great Asset to Beauty

Much of your beauty depends on the amount and kind of sleep you get each night.

The art of complete relaxation is by no means an unimportant one. And you can't relax if you take the problems and worries of the day to bed with you. Forget your troubles and try to think of something pleasant when you are trying to go to sleep.

Sleeping flat on your back is considered more beneficial than curling up in a knot or sleeping on either side. If you possibly can sleep without a pillow, do so. Your neck will be more rested if it has been flat on the bed in line with your spinal column and you are less apt to get that little hump on the back of your neck. But, if you must use one, have it as small as possible.

A good mattress is one of the first requisites of healthful, restful sleep. It should be neither too hard nor too soft and must not be damp or sagging in spots. Clean bedclothes and sheets that are tucked under tightly enough to obliterate wrinkles are more conducive to rest than wrinkled sheets and blankets that are simply thrown on the bed in a haphazard fashion.

Always sleep with at least one window open. The draft never should be directly on the bed but the room should be filled with clean, cool air.

Laugh a Little More; Be Cheerful

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A little more smile, a little less frown.

A little less kicking a man when he's down.
A little more "we" a little less "I".
A little more laugh a little less cry!

I do not know who to thank for this. I saw it quoted and signed, "Lines of American Authorship."

With thanks to its author I am using it here.

It is a creed for each and every one of us for 1934 and by "us" I mean the children too. As a household motto it cannot be rivaled.

On splashes over the tub on tablecloths and towels and stamp down on wallpaper.

But above all, these four lines should be written indelibly in our hearts.

When I came across them I was in truth searching for something on "smiles" alone.

As it happened I was inspired to do so by a glance around at the family one night. There they sat with street-car faces, as I call them, looking as though the crack of doom was about to sound. And looking at myself in a mirror I discovered that I too, was sucking in my cheeks with an expression that indicated the tumbler was just around the corner.

An idea struck me. I offered a dime for thoughts.

One was wondering how you started to compose music and why you knew the "Nutcracker Suite" was about fairies even though it sounded so sombre.

Another was trying to remember if she owed somebody a letter or if her friend owed her one.

My husband said he was thinking about the furnace.

As usual I myself had been planning a dozen things at once and hoping I'd get completely over my last spell of grip so I could rest at them.

Not conducive to smiles. Contemplative thoughts—most of them.

But this is our trouble, everyone's trouble. We let our face muscles sag when we think. It

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN C. IRELAND
Director, Personal and Health Education
New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

Watch Out for Eye Strain

The importance of good vision is obvious. Throughout life the eyes are among the chief tools of learning. To the child in school, they play a large part in education. It is essential, therefore, that parents and teachers be ever on the alert to note signs of eye strain and defective vision.

Diagnoses should be left to the eye specialist, but anyone living and working with children should be familiar with the common signs and symptoms of trouble so as to prevent further damage before serious harm results.

The most frequent warnings are headache and eyestrain; itching, smarting, or watering of the eyes. Squinting and frowning are also common. The eyes and lids may be inflamed, and there may be puffiness beneath. The child may complain that the eyes feel tired. Sensitiveness to light is also noticed in many cases.

Teachers and observant parents will note that the child habitually holds a book nearer or farther from the face than is normal, and that words are misread or skipped. The child explains that "the letters run together." Not all of these signs appear in a single case, of course, but one or more of the above should be regarded as cause for an immediate investigation.

Is eating related to learning? This question is discussed in Dr. Ireland's next article.

should be part of every human's training to keep mouths up and eyes smiling. It makes everyone happier and certainly handsomer. It makes friends and unconscious reactions on nerves, our health and our courage.

Almost any household that remembers to smile is a quick-moving, happy one. Smiles dictate to "tempers, and bad dispositions find themselves hunting for a word. Each must do his part and not leave it all to the rest. We can't turn into idiotic grinners, of course—that would be terrible—but there are real smiles and counterfeit smiles. It is REAL ones that count and they are never idiotic.

It seems to me that the last three lines of this verse will take care of themselves if we observe the first one.

At any rate, let's go.

Burkhardt-Anderson In Amboy Monday

Miss Dorothy Burkhardt of Sublette and Edgar Anderson of Amboy were united in marriage at St. Patrick parsonage in Amboy Monday evening, Feb. 12, at six o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Longbein of Sublette, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, were the only attendants. The bride was attired in blue silk dress, with accessories to match. The young couple will make their home with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of Amboy, for the time being.

Swedish Prince, Sigvard, Is Very Royal

Washington, Feb. 23—(AP)—Erika Patzek will be so near to thrones—and yet so far.

The young German screen star has picked, in Prince Sigvard of Sweden, a fiancé closer to reigning royalty than any of her film-land sisters who have married princes.

Prince Sigvard's mother was a Princess Royal of Great Britain. She was the Princess Margaret, granddaughter of Queen Victoria and first cousin of King George.

Prince Sigvard's father, heir to the Swedish throne, married the Princess Royal at Windsor Castle, England, 29 years ago.

The Swedish Prince, who has elected film directing as his life work, is thus closely related to blood and marriage to practical all important families still on European thrones.

The Queen of Norway, sister of King George of England, is his second cousin. Princess Astrid, who became Queen of Belgium today, is also a second cousin.

King Carol of Rumania is his cousin twice removed. Queen Marie of Yugoslavia bears him the same relation.

The Swedish royal family is also connected with the rulers of Italy and of Bulgaria.

But royal frowns greeted the news that Prince Sigvard is intent on marrying his beautiful commoner. He and his bride probably will never find the gates of ruling palaces opening to them, but are more likely to find their friends among the kings and queens of Scandinavia.

Ball Sponsored By Knights Templar One Of Most Brilliant

The 202nd anniversary of the birthday of George Washington was celebrated at the Dixon Masonic Temple by one of the most beautiful parties that has ever been held in that attractive building. The Dixon Commandery of the Knights Templar took advantage of this national holiday to hold their annual ball and card party and the result of the work of the various committees made the affair a grand success, for more than 250 couples attended and thoroughly enjoyed the double event.

The ball room had been beautifully decorated, the most beautiful part of the decorations being a wonderful oil painting of George Washington which was suspended in front of the orchestra shell and illuminated by spot lights. The ball was started by a grand march which was led by the Commandery, Sir Knight Frank H. Kreim, and his wife, following whom were the Commandery officers in the order of their rank with the Past Commanders and the Sir Knights in full uniform, accompanied by their ladies in their beautiful party gowns. This year the guests were invited to join in the grand march and they all appreciated the opportunity to participate in this part of the program which has always been a most interesting feature of Knights Templar dancing parties.

The music was exceptionally good and most of the dancers remained to enjoy every number played until the close of the party at 1:00 A. M. There were many guests from the surrounding cities, all of whom, as they departed, expressed their appreciation of this delightful party.

The card party, which was held in the parlor under the direction of Mrs. C. J. McLean and Mrs. Clark Rickard, was attended by a number of guests who prefer this form of entertainment. The first ladies' prize was won by Mrs. Vera Lorton, and the prize was a beautiful floor lamp. The second ladies' prize was won by Mrs. William Gilbert. This prize was a very fine wall mirror. Ernest Swan won the gentlemen's first prize and William L. Frye won the gentlemen's second prize.

The guests all expressed the same opinion which was that this was a most fitting way to celebrate the anniversary of the birthday of George Washington and they hoped that another similar party might be arranged for in the near future.

Crusaders' Class Enjoy a Social

The Crusaders' Sunday school class had a very interesting social in the church parlors last night which was conducted in the form of an old time country school. The members of the class came dressed like boys and girls, carrying their lunch in tin pails. School was called by the ringing of a small bell and the teacher, Dean Hoff took charge in a very dignified way, and manifested great ability as a school master. School was opened by singing "America" and taking the American pledge. Some splendid poems were given by members of the class. Classes in arithmetic, geography, reading, drawing and handwork were conducted. The school enjoyed a visit from Paul Thompson who claimed to be the county superintendent. Mrs. Clifford Burgard was awarded the prize of a cherry pie for the best costume. After lunch the teacher decided to give the school a vacation for the remainder of the day and all departed for their homes.

Birthday Was Honored on Wednesday

Mrs. E. O. Holbrook delightfully entertained Wednesday afternoon sixteen friends in honor of her aunt, Mrs. Lillian Stevenson, whose birthday it was. The afternoon was spent in playing games, and in visiting. Later all were invited to the dining room, where Mrs. Holbrook, assisted by Mrs. Roy Finney, served delightful refreshments. Much admired was the tempting birthday cake. The guests then departed for their homes, claiming the afternoon had been most enjoyable and wishing Mrs. Stevenson many more such happy anniversaries.

HISTORY OF WATER SUPPLY

THE CISTERN AND THE WELL

SO LONG as mankind lived by hunting and fishing, the problem of a water supply was not a very serious one. Men could always manage to find some freshet or spring. But when the race assumed a pastoral existence, it was confronted with the danger of drought. On the grassy plains there were seasons when the streams dried up and the springs ceased. Gradually, men learned that rainwater could be stored from season to season in cisterns hewn from rock. Such are the "wells" mentioned in the bible, for it was not until less than a thousand years ago that we learned how to tap and to force up the water that runs deep down in the earth and to raise it to the surface.

All these things were weary but essential steps in the evolution of the modern water system as we know it today—the system that puts a supply of fresh, pure water at the instant command of every householder.

EUROPE MUST REALIZE ITS PRESENT PERIL.

A thoughtful man, who surveyed the state of Europe today, almost might be pardoned if he began to believe that the end of all things was at hand.

It is a long time since the sky has been as dark as it is today, and it is hard to see how it could be very much darker. Remembering what the last war did to civilization, it is not easy to contemplate the approach of a new one without the most profound misgiving.

And yet—although this is the most hackneyed remark in the world—it is just possible that things are not quite as bad as they seem; possible, that is, that what we are looking at now is not the eve of general dissolution, but that very dark hour which, according to tradition, comes just before the dawn.

For if there is left in mankind any sanity at all, the present troubles in Europe ought to be convincing that the policies of the post-war era have been disastrously impractical.

The frenzied tangle of repression, competitive armament, blind nationalism, disregard of economic law and exaltation of strong-armed dictatorship is giving all the world complete demonstration of its ruinous futility.

It is enough to show the blindest, in other words, that the nations of the world cannot go much farther along the road they have been following without tumbling, all together, into the pit.

And there ought to be enough common sense in European capitals to pave the way for some sort of new deal.

Today's situation is not like that of 1914. In that day the world not yet had had its frightful demonstration of catastrophe which war brings to victor and vanquished alike, nor was the imminence of war a matter of general knowledge, except among a relatively small group of statesmen.

Now every one, down to the most ignorant peasant, knows that war is near, knows that if it comes it will mean complete disaster for everyone involved.

Is one being a blind optimist in supposing that this general awareness may create a pressure on the rulers of Europe that will lead to the adoption of more sane policies?

And the disorder, the bloodshed, the menaces which recent weeks have brought may, just possibly, bring the statesmen of Europe to their senses.

A SERIOUS UNDERTAKING.

The fact that three army pilots lost their lives in crashes while flying to airmail fields, preparatory to taking up their new duties as mail pilots, is a bad omen, even though they had not yet begun to fly the regular mail routes.

It does not mean, of course, that the army flyer will be less capable of carrying the mail than the regular civilian pilots have been.

But it does serve as a reminder that flying the mail is a specialized and difficult job, requiring the utmost skill and the most elaborate and accurate preparation.

The civilian pilots have made a truly remarkable record on this job in the last half dozen years. No one doubts that the army flyers are as brave, capable, and well-trained as any airmen in the country; but in taking over the mail routes they are stepping into a strange new field, filled with dangers.

The whole country will wish them the best of luck in their new venture.

WHEN RADICALS MEET.

One thing that the ordinary citizen finds it almost impossible to understand is the venomous bitterness which the different radical sects hold toward one another.

The row between Socialists and Communists at that Austrian protest meeting in New York the other night is a case in point.

To most of us, probably, the difference between a Socialist and a Communist is not very great; certainly it cannot be a tenth as great as the difference between either party and an out-and-out capitalist.

But neither Socialist nor Communist ever assails the capitalist with half of the sustained fury that he looses on his comrade-in-radicalism.

A Socialist-Communist row is the most savage of all political scraps.

And it's all very hard to comprehend. One would think the two factions at least could present a united front against the established order.

But they can't. They never fight so well as when they are fighting each other.

You can't get anywhere by being antagonistic. I learned in prison you got to use molasses instead of vinegar.—Charles Ponzi, notorious swindler.

The NRA ought to be abolished. Other countries have had more recovery and they haven't gone through the monkeyshines that we have.—Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania.

Liberty of expression of thought is absolutely indispensable to the progress of society.—Supreme court of Mexico.

Ice Fountain Grows to Mountain

When Detroiters gaze at this gleaming tower of ice, they know it's been a long, hard winter. The city's famed ice fountain has risen higher than for many years, an infallible weather gauge, according to residents. The fountain is started each year with the advent of cold weather and its size is shown strikingly, with the skaters at its foot as a comparison.

FRIDAY, FEB. 23

(Read Matthew VI:7-8.)

"Use Not Vain Repetitions"

The things we do habitually are done at last without thought.

Therein lies a snare for all who repeat set forms of prayer. There is always a tendency for a human being to degenerate into a machine and when one prays mechanically, the glory of prayer has departed.

It is a sobering thought that one can become an automaton in repeating the Lord's Prayer.

The prophets of Baal disgusted the prophet Elijah by repetitions which were futile. If we repeat the Lord's Prayer day after day without realizing the meaning of the words, and with no conscious desire to have those petitions fulfilled, we have come down to the level of the priests of Baal. Prayer without thought is mockery. Trying to bend the will of God by repeating a prayer formula is superstition. Jesus repeated his prayer in the garden, and Paul repeated his prayer for the removal of his thorn, but the repetitions were not in vain. We have a right to repeat a prayer as long as we can fill it with the desire of the heart.

PRAYER. Deliver us, O Lord, from the folly of coming to Thee with empty words. Save us from the curse of a lazy mind, and help put more thought into our prayers. Save us from the blight of formalism, and inspire in us a fear of saying things we do not mean. Amen.

Endangering lives of national guardsmen and firemen and destroying priceless documents including war records of Illinois soldiers, an $850,000 fire razed the three-story state arsenal and armory adjacent to the capital at Springfield, Ill. Exploding ammunition added to the danger. The late Theodore Roosevelt dedicated the structure and Herbert Hoover and Frank D. Roosevelt spoke there.

to keep all of these high officials with these large salaries, who can live comfortably without the salary and discharge the men who have no means of livelihood? Is it fair to keep high priced foremen and lay off common workers when it requires a foreman, no matter how small the crew?

Shall a registration committee be retained when the men are being laid off and no more registration is needed? Do we need a certifying officer, and this officer has three others in the family working?

We, the members of the Labor League say plainly, leave all the men work, regardless of political affiliations, until the money that has been appropriated is exhausted and discontinue the work then and not before, and not keep a few men working in order to keep a lot of high salaried political leaders on the pay roll.

If there is any justice shown by this administration to the working people, this will be their plan.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Ha, ha! That toad was pretty smart. He told us that we should depart and find some sort of shelter," said wee Doty, with a grin.

"Of course we thought that he just joked, and now we all are getting soaked. In just about a moment we will be drenched to the skin."

"Well, why stand here?" snapped Scouty. "Gee, I'll lead the way. Just follow me. I saw our friend, old Nature Nick, run for some place to hide."

"Come on! I see a little house. We'll enter, quiet as a mouse, and, when we do, I'll bet that we will find old Nick inside."

They soon found that his guess was right. Said Nick, "I ran with all my might. I thought you all were following. My goodness, see it rain!"

"When I get soaking wet, you see, it always makes a wreck of me. It isn't any fun to have your joints and muscles pain."

They waited for a little while and Goldy broke into a smile. "The sun is coming out," she yelled. "I'm heading for outdoors."

"The trees and flowers and everything, right into sparkling life will spring. That always is what happens every single time it pours."

The bunch walked round and then, by chance, they came upon a lot of ants. "My gracious, but they're busy," said one Tiny. "See them work!"

"Of course they're busy," answered Nick. "The way they do their work is slick. Let's watch them build a sand house, now. Not one of them will shirk."

The Tinymites all sat around and watched ants scamper 'cross the ground. Some of them worked at building while the others brought the sand.

Said Doty, "You can plainly see they're just as clever as can be. When the sand house is finished I am sure it will look grand."

STATE OF SIEGE IN NICARAGUAN CITIES, DECREE

Presidential Orders Fol- low Murder of San- dino, Aides

By RICHARD E. FRIZELL
(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)

Managua, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The government answered whispered threats of retaliation for yesterday's slaying of General Augusto Sandino with the imposition today of a "state of siege."

The fiery, Marine-baiting "Little August," who once said, "I am destined to die with a bullet in my back," was slain by the American-trained National Guardsmen whom he hated.

The government, deploring the affair, issued a communique saying that Sandino, his brother Socarras, and two aides, Generals Estrada and Imanzor, were shot by Guardsmen who kidnapped them, and took them for a "ride" to the outskirts of Managua.

The Guardsmen, said the communique, acted "in spite of strict instructions to extend complete guarantees to the Sandino element."

"Abnormal Situation"
Under the "state of siege," President Juan B. Sacasa is empowered with special authority to maintain order in what is described as "an abnormal situation."

The fear of retaliatory measures by Sandino adherents was pronounced, but there were no indications early today of disorder. Most of the 40-year-old bandit-general's followers are in northern Nicaragua.

(Mexico City dispatches, quoting Central American circles, expressed the opinion that Sandino's death would seriously complicate the Nicaragua political situation. The Liberal party already is split between partisans of President Sacasa and those of Vice President Rudolfo Espinosa.)

D. Leonardo Arguello, Nicaraguan Foreign Minister, said in a statement that Sandino, who was had come to Managua "to arrange on good terms with the President, with the President ways and means to reach a solution on how to terminate conflicts that had arisen between his men and the National Guard."

They were Sandino's enemies. The night before his death he published in a newspaper a letter calling the National Guard "unconstitutional." That attitude of Sandino was reported to have caused recent friction with guard officers. Sandino had said it before.

Sandino's hatred of "imperialism" United States was based on a profound distrust of Uncle Sam, coupled with personal ambition to establish a Spanish-American league of nations to counteract the United States' domination. This is revealed in letters from his own pen which have come to light since his death.

The seal he used for his letters depicted a Nicaraguan with a machete in his upraised left hand and a prostrate American Marine under his left foot. The Marines lost 123 men in an unsuccessful five-year campaign to capture him.

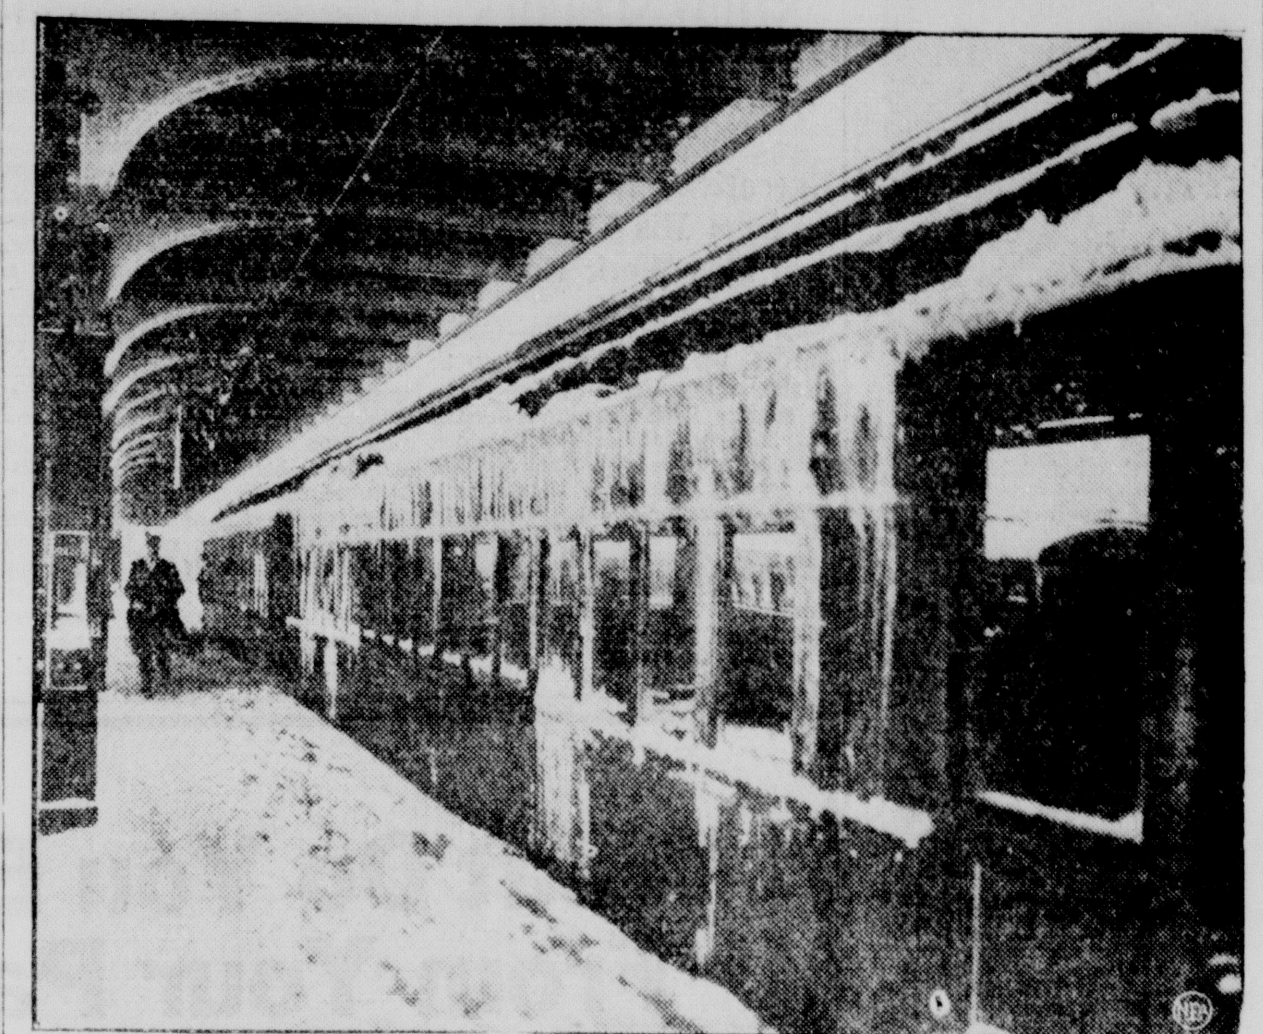

Sandino was something more than a jungle bandit and something less than the George Washington of Central America, which he has often been called. Thin, short and smiling, he had more than the average education and personality.

He Had Color
He loved to dress and he had color. He was usually clothed in a uniform of dark brown with black puttees, immaculately polished. He wore a silk handkerchief of red and black knotted about his throat and a broad-brimmed Texas cowboy hat pulled low over his broad forehead.

He had straight, black hair, being part Indian, and his curved eyebrows arched high over deep black eyes. He was without personal vices. Neither tobacco nor liquor appealed to him.

There was an added touch of the

GOOD THOUGHTS

I should like to have material good fortune be the portion of every man and woman in America, but I do not choose material good fortune alone. I should like more of fraternity among the nations of the world; and if we apply the Golden Rule we shall be the happiest people in the world.

—Warren Harding

Not emphasis of race, and not the glorification of nationalism, not the confidence in armaments, will bring salvation to the world. Man must return to and rediscover God.

—Dr. Samuel Schulman

America first—not in pride, arrogance, and disdain of other races and peoples, but in sympathy, love and understanding.

—Bishop G. A. Oldham

He that walketh righteously, and speaketh uprightly; he that despiseth the gain of oppressions, that shaketh his hands from holding of bribes, that stoppeth his ears from hearing of blood, and shutteth his eyes from seeing evil; He shall dwell on high—bread shall be picturesquely when he took to the field. Around his neck he wore extra bandoliers of shells. There was a revolver on each hip, and often a bright flower in his hat.

On May 5, 1927, the Conservatives and Liberals signed the Tiplapa agreement, sponsored by Henry L. Stimson, and agreed to surrender their arms to the Marines. Sandino refused. He called them all cowards, assembled an army of 1,200, dismissed 500 who were married and took the others into the mountains to serve without pay, receiving nothing except their food and uniforms.

There, in the humid jungles and rugged mountains and amid jungle and mountain lions, he began his five-year game of hide and seek with the Marines which brought him world fame.

In the wilds he set up a government of his own beneath a red-and-black banner. He issued paper money, granted leave to his soldiers, dictated formal papers and levied tribute on surrounding ranches.

Once he was driven to Mexico but came back and staged the raid at Puerto Cabezas where nine Americans and four others were killed, causing Sandino's name again to blaze on front pages.

It was said he lost 4,000 men during the years of fighting that formed the bulwark of his notorious career.

be given him; his waters shall be sure.

—Isaiah 33

Men have been so largely seeking their own good, striving for their own advantage—giving comparatively so little thought to the needs of others—that a true sense of kinship has been sadly lacking in human affairs. Selfishness as a deterrent to harmonious association is quite readily discerned, and every Christian will acknowledge that to practice the Golden Rule is the way to overcome the difficulty.

Motoring at 11,000 Feet

Fall River Pass carries a magnificent government highway over the continental divide between Estes park and Grand lake. The road in question is perhaps the highest continuous highway in North America extending for nearly ten miles above timberline, which in that region is at an altitude of approximately 11,000 feet, according to the Kansas City Times. Trail ridge, along which the road has been built, is so open as to leave the motorist virtually exposed to any blizzard that may sweep across the divide there, but the highway is so wide and the grade so easy, that even in a storm he is not likely to feel any sense of danger. From a scenic point of view, this highway that crosses the watershed between the Atlantic and Pacific slopes is one of the wonders of the modern world, which of course, is hard for Americans to believe, because it happens to be at home.

SPECULATION BY BIG INDUSTRIES IS NOW ALLEGED

Senate Committee to Wind Up Probe by Making Charge

Washington, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Senate investigators of the stock market planned to wind up their two-year inquiry today with a charge that big business lent funds for gigantic speculations.

As the spectacular investigation neared its close, Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, said he would show that during frenzied boom days big industries made call loans "running into hundreds of millions" for speculation.

Representatives of five large corporations were called. They were Harry F. Sinclair, chairman of Consolidated Oil; Walter F. Teague, of Standard Oil of New Jersey; and officials of General Motors; Cities Service and Bethlehem Steel.

Meantime, a prime subject of conversation was the New York Stock Exchange's request that a bill to control exchanges be scrapped in favor of a plan suggested by the men of the "big board."

Fights Fletcher Bill

Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, surprised a House committee late yesterday by voicing this suggestion. It came after he had conducted an all-day fight against the pending Fletcher-Rayburn bill.

The regulation fight continued today, with the spotlight on another angle. George U. Harris, chairman of the publicity committee of the New York Exchange, was subpoenaed to answer questions about what Senator Fletcher called a nationwide "propaganda campaign" against the Fletcher-Rayburn bill.

Whitney already had been quizzed about this subject. He made a flat denial yesterday of reports that Wall Street had sent $2,000,000 to Washington to kill the bill.

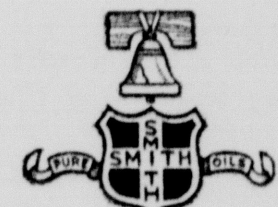

Word "Yankee" Believed to Be of Indian Origin

The exact origin of the word "Yankee" is vague, but since the early English Colonists of Massachusetts first called that it is commonly accepted that Yankees, or Yenghees was the Indian's effort to pronounce "English," says Pathfinder Magazine. Others say it was the Indian corruption of "Anglais," the French word for "English." If the latter is the case the name must have originated with the Canadian Indians, since they were the first to come in contact with the French.

The word was used by the British soldiers about 1775 as a term of contempt for the New Englanders. During the Civil war the southerners applied it generally to all northern people, while in Europe it is quite common to refer to all Americans as Yankees. Properly speaking, it applies only to a citizen of the New England states.

COMPLEXION OF FLORIDA FIGHT CHANGES DAILY

Experts Commence To Give Loughran Big Chance to Win

Miami, Fla., Feb. 23 —(AP)—The closer the ring sharks get to Primo Carnera's heavyweight title defense against Tommy Loughran next Wednesday night the better appear the challenger's chances of staging one of the top upsets of ring history.

When the match was made, weeks ago, the bout was considered a tuneup for Carnera's summer campaign and the great battle that loomed with Max Baer.

The chances of Loughran, 180-pounder, tackling the 265 pound giant were considered negligible.

Complexion Changes
But now, with the match only five days away, the complexion of the tussle has changed.

Loughran, in his training workouts at West Palm Beach, has fought himself into perfect condition. He is handling sparring partners as tall as Carnera with the same ease he displayed in whipping giants such as Max Baer, Victorio Campolo and the late Ernie Schaaf. He is confident to a point where he almost pleads with you not to make a mistake, to see the obvious, and realize he will win.

"Big fellows," he says, "always have been easier for me than little ones. My speed is tripled against them. Modesty out the window. Carnera never saw the day when he could begin to box with me. He can't hope to match me in generalship and experience."

Poor Partners
Carnera, in his workouts here, has employed small, inadequately equipped sparring partners, as poor a lot as ever worked in a champion's camp. The three veterans he had of any note, Arthur Huttick, Harold Mays and George Manley, have been discharged. They were hitting him at will.

Worse than that in the eyes of the experts is the obviousness of Carnera's fighting plan. He seems to expect that Loughran will charge into him to be speared and crushed in the champion's huge arms. He is not equipped for guile for a smart bout. When he tries to take the offense, as Loughran probably will make him, he flounders badly.

The champion seems upset about something, and no one has been able to learn as yet the significance of the failure of Louis Soreli, his Italian manager and companion, to come here from New York for the training or the fight. Carnera merely shrugs, but there is an air of depression foreboding about the camp.

Secret Wedding Isn't Secret Long

A secret is just something for everybody to know in Hollywood as Pat Paterson, English actress, and Charles Boyer, actor, ruefully will admit. TILDEN EXPECTS FRENCHMEN WILL STRIKE STRIDE

Expects Tougher Opposition from Plaa and Cochet Now

Boston, Feb. 23 —(AP)—Big Bill Tilden and Ellsworth Vines hoped to continue their success against Henry Cochet and Martin Plaa of France in their professional tennis matches in Boston Garden tonight and tomorrow night.

Although they swept their opening matches against the Frenchmen in New York, Tilden and Vines both said they expected stiffer opposition in the games here.

"Cochet is playing as fine tennis as I have seen him play in years," Tilden said, "and I wouldn't be surprised to see him beat either Vines tonight or myself tomorrow night."

"I had to play like fury to beat him Wednesday in New York and mark my words—he'll play sensationally here."

COCHRAN PLAYS LAYTON TONIGHT FOR THE TITLE

Three Cushion Championship Stake in the Finals

New York, Feb. 23 —(AP)—The world's three cushion billiard championship and $1,500 in cash will be at stake tonight when Welk Cochran of San Francisco and Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., take their places at the familiar green-cloth table.

It will be the last regular-scheduled game of the tournament which began Feb. 5, and it will be decisive.

Cochran, who won the crown for the first time last year, and Layton, ten-times holder of it in a long career, reach the climax match with identical records of eight victories and two defeats. The winner tonight takes the championship; the loser automatically falls into a second place tie with Allen Hall of Chicago, necessitating a playing for second and third positions.

Willie Hoppe, New York veteran, defeated J. N. Bozeman, young Valje, Cal., sensation, 50-42 in the next to last game of the tournament last night, and wound up in a tie for fourth place with Bozeman. Each won seven games and lost four. They will play off the tie Saturday.

PURDUE NEEDS JUST TWO MORE GAMES TO WIN

Boilermakers are Prospective Big Ten Champions

Chicago, Feb. 23 —(AP)—Needing only two more victories to earn no less than a tie for the Big Ten basketball championship, Purdue will go after one of them tomorrow night against Michigan at Lafayette.

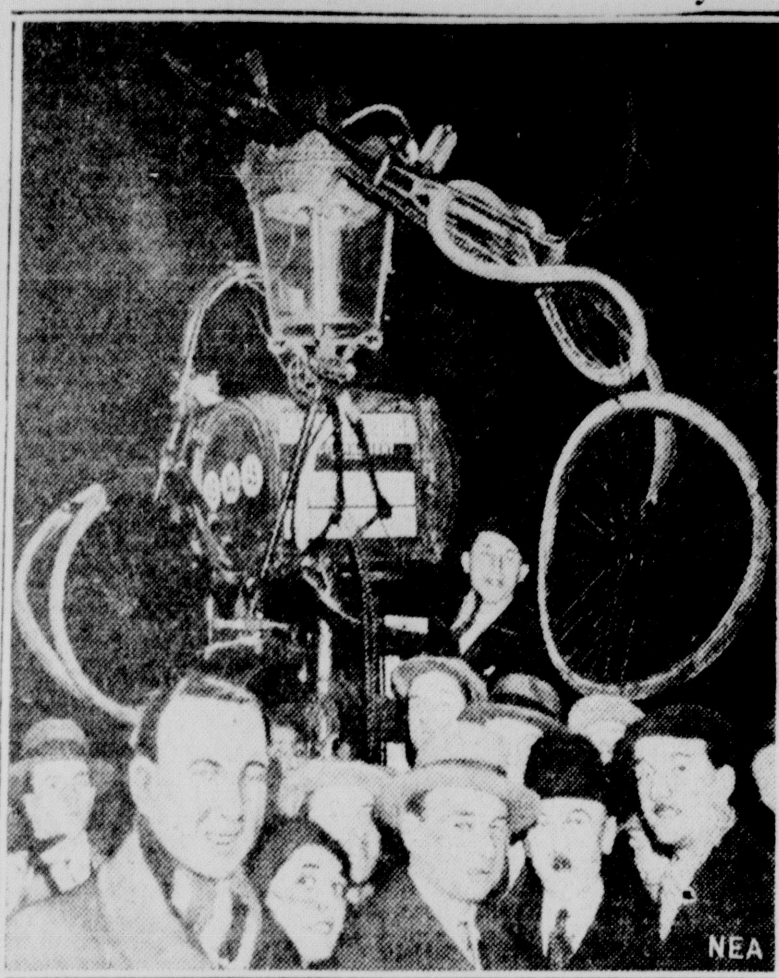

The Boilermakers stack up as a cinch to take care of Michigan, since they smothered the Wolverines, 51 to 20, at Ann Arbor earlier in the season. Two more victories will give Purdue at least a tie for the title, even if Wisconsin wins all of its four remaining games.

The Badgers, who have won five games and lost three, to seven victories and one defeat for the prospective champions, will meet Ohio State at Columbus tomorrow night. Iowa will resume its drive to salvage something from a disappointing season, meeting Minnesota at Iowa City. In the other conference game Illinois tackles Indiana at Bloomington. Chicago plays the Southern Illinois Teachers at Carbondale, Ill., in a fill-in game.

KIDNAPERS PLAY LOSING GAME AS DIVIDENDS FALL

Law Gradually Catching Up With Practitioners of "Snatch"

Chicago, Feb. 23 —(AP)—Kidnapers are playing a losing game. The "dividends" are falling off. With a few exceptions, deaths and prison terms have been their rewards.

The law has been moving, catching the professional "snatcher" as well as the amateur.

One of the amateurs—Charles W. Mayo—panicky and fearful of the law's move against the kidnapping business, joined in death two other abductors—Willie Sharkey, who hanged himself in St. Paul, and Verne Sankey, who "beat the rap" by suicide in his prison cell in the South Dakota state penitentiary.

Mayo hanged himself in a police station here yesterday. His crime was frustrated when his intended victim, E. P. Adler, newspaper publisher of Davenport, Ia., gamely fought off Mayo and John Lacy, in a loop hotel. Mayo chose to follow in the footsteps of Sharkey and Sankey. His companion awaits probable charges of attempted kidnapping and assault.

Sharkey Took "Easy Way"

Sharkey took "the easy way out" rather than face trial for the $70,000 snatch of John Factor, the international speculator, for which crime his associates—Roger Tuohy, Gustav Schaefer, and Albert Kator—were convicted today.

Sankey preferred death to a life term in prison for the $60,000 abduction of Charles Boettcher, II, wealthy Denver broker.

Harvey Bailey, R. G. Shannon and Shannon's wife went to prison for life, as did Albert Bates and Mr. and Mrs. George (Machine Gun) Kelley, for the $200,000 kidnapping of Charles E. Urschel, the Oklahoma City oil man, abducted from his home on July 22, 1933.

Notable, too, in the trend toward death and heavy penalties was the case of the kidnapers who killed Brooke Hart at San Jose, Cal. They were lynched.

Other Side of Ledger

On the other side of the ledger, however, there have been some cases in which the authorities are still in the dark—including the kidnap and murder of baby Charles Lindbergh, and the $200,000 "snatch" of Edward Bremer, St. Paul banker. Federal investigators are still at work on both cases.

Behind the crimes lies the love of money. Bad times have nothing to do with them. That is the conclusion reached by Ray Mars Simpson of Chicago, who made a study of the prisoners sent to the Illinois state prison at Joliet.

He told the American Orthopsychiatric Association yesterday, crime became more rampant when jobs and money are plentiful.

Despite this, the list of men who died for gold continues to grow. There was Theodore (Handsome Jack) Klutas, Central Illinois gangster shot to death by police. Others who paid included:

Others Paid Penalty
Frank B. Souder and Gail Swoley, members of the Klutas gang, sent to prison from Chicago for life.

GOV. HORNER TO STUDY SCHOOLS' NEEDS AT ONCE

Executive Will Return from His Vacation This Week End

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 23 —(AP)—One of the first problems to be tackled by Governor Horner when he returns from vacation Sunday will be that of legislation which seeks to provide additional revenue for schools which are in distress.

The Governor, together with his advisers and leaders of the legislature, will commence a study of the numerous bills already before the assembly.

If any of the plans proves satisfactory to the Chief Executive it likely will be advanced rapidly after the Assembly reconvenes Tuesday.

Legislators, facing primary contests April 10, are not anxious to sanction any scheme which will result in the imposition of new taxes at this time.

Several Ways Open

There are several apparent ways in which they can avoid this and, at the same time, provide the relief which schools are demanding. The Assembly could provide for a bond issue sufficiently large to meet the needs of the schools. Such a bond issue would have to be ratified by the voters at the next general election. In the meantime, however, the state could issue anticipation warrants against the proposed bond issue and thus obtain immediate funds. Then, at a later date, the Assembly could provide some form of taxation to retire the bonds. If the plan were sanctioned by the voters, or the anticipation warrants if the bond issue were rejected.

One bond issue proposal is already on the ballot for next November so Horner and his advisers may decide it would be unwise to include another. In that event diversion of some taxes already imposed would be the only solution. A bill now before the Senate provides for the diversion of liquor taxes to the state school distributive fund.

ABANDONED ONE CAR

A Chevrolet sedan, one of the cars which was stolen from the north side of the court house square early yesterday morning, was found abandoned on state highway route 7 a short distance south of Princeton yesterday afternoon. The car which was being towed from Chicago to Seattle, Wash., had been uncoupled from the tow car, a Buick coupe and left standing on the highway. It was towed to Princeton last yesterday afternoon when Sheriff William Neill was informed. Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber was informed of the recovery of the stolen car this morning.

You expect your newspaper to give notice of all public meetings, public observances, conventions, etc.

You expect your newspaper to urge support of poor relief benefits, library drives, Red Cross drives, Christmas Seal drives, Legion and Auxiliary drives, poppy sales, forget-me-not sales, have-a-heart drives, etc.

You expect your newspaper to publish church notices, church programs, club news, farm bureau information, demonstration unit news, market news, weather news, bring you the market reports and cover all doings of the many semi-public organizations.

You expect your newspaper to support every meritorious organization effort for the city's good.

And you expect all this for a few dollars a year.

No, it can't be done for that. The money you, as a subscriber pay for this paper covers little of the cost of publishing the paper. The other expense must be paid by advertisers.

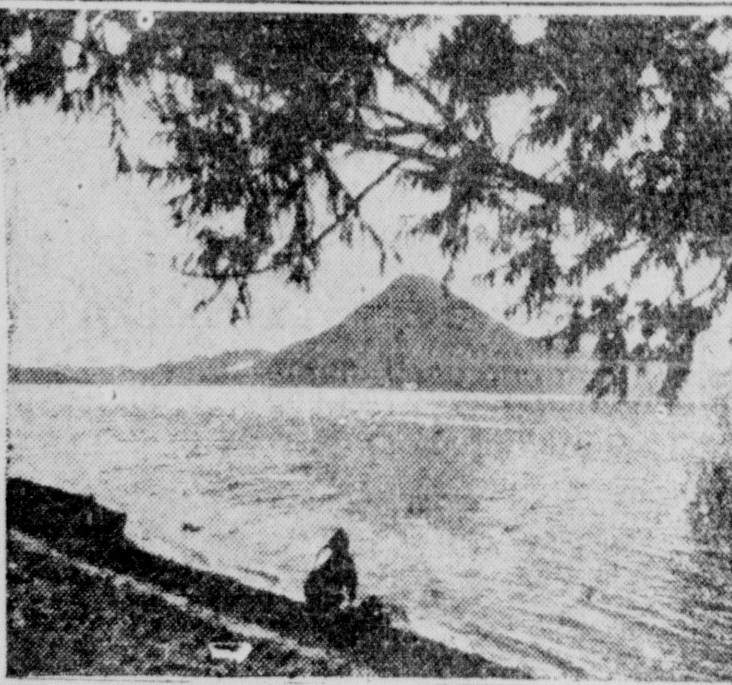

Since the advertisers pay a large share of the expense of publishing your newspaper, don't you think you owe them the duty to patronize them whenever they offer you equal or better values than non-advertisers?

And you, Mr. Advertiser, don't you think that in view of the many services which the newspaper performs, for which the newspaper derives no compensation, but which mean more business and more profits to you, the newspaper deserves your advertising and printing business? Make your community newspaper your advertising and printing medium and you help build up the community. Send your advertising dollar away from home and you do just what you wouldn't want others to do to whom you look for your business. It is just as important that the advertising dollar remains in the community as it is for the grocery dollar and the clothing dollar and the rest of the commodity dollars that make your town prosperous to remain at home.

Advertisers also should appreciate the services rendered by this newspaper. The Telegraph has faithfully served this community for 83 years.

Recently The Telegraph was awarded the distinction of being the best paper in the state of Illinois with a population of 20,000 and under.

Traveling Around America

SETTING FOR STRANGE BETROTHAL

THE delicate beauty of shimmering lakes and azure skies, the grandeur of smoke-plumed volcanoes and mighty mountains have won for Guatemala the unqualified praise of all visitors who know the world, and yet it is not only this spectacular scenery but also the lure of mysterious half-buried cities and the fascination of primitive Indian villages which make Guatemala one of the most popular countries on the route of the weekly cruises between New York and California.

Near Lake Atitlan—pictured here—at the foot of a towering volcano rests the ruined city of the Tutujil Indians. It is a village of thatched bee-hive-shaped houses built of black volcanic boulders—each house with a mausoleum-like structure behind it, erected as a retiring room for the mother during childbirth.

The Indians in this village are exceedingly primitive, knowing practically nothing of the outside world. Among the ancient customs to which they still cling is the betrothal ceremony. When a boy finds his one and only, he hides in the shrubbery on the route she must follow on her daily water-carrying trips between Lake Atitlan and her house. When the girl approaches his hiding place, balancing the jar of water on her head, he dashes out, snatches the jar, and smashes it to pieces on her head. Her method of replying "no" is to run away. If she accepts his advances, however, she takes the ducking and, like it—remaining at attention. This act is regarded as a public betrothal, and is followed by the wedding ceremony which is equally simple, though less dramatic. The couple simply go away together and establish a home.

Feet Ridiculed; Wins Divorce

Non-support she might stand but when her husband declared that her feet were too big, he dancing terrible, and that she was as awkward as an ox, it was more than Sheila Terry, film actress, above, could endure. She testified in asking divorce from Maj. L. E. Clark, New York banker, in a Los Angeles court. The decree was granted.

YOUR GROCER HAS THIS SUNNY WAY TO BETTER HEALTH

Check Common Constipation with a Delicious Cereal

Food has a lot to do with how you feel and how you look. For instance, you need plenty of "bulk" with your meals to avoid the risk of common constipation.

This ailment frequently causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy. Yet, in most cases, it can be overcome pleasantly and safely by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" in convenient and concentrated form. Laboratory tests show the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is safe and effective. In fact, it is much like that found in leafy vegetables.

Within the body, the fiber of ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

In addition, ALL-BRAN provides vitamin B and iron.

Isn't this sunny way better than taking patent medicines—so often harmful? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or cook into appetizing recipes. Be sure you get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

First Excellence of Human Being
The Darwinian doctrine of the survival of the fittest tended to popularize the view that the strength to assert superior fitness was the first excellence of a human being.

The Tragedy
A tragedy is a drama of which the outcome is bad, often fatal, for the hero or heroine; that quality which places grief or catastrophe on a plane which commands deep sympathy and respect.

ELGAR, MASTER OF MUSIC FOR KING, IS DEAD

Long Illness of Noted
Composer Followed
an Operation

Worcester, England, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Sir Edward Elgar, British composer and Master of the King's music since 1924, died today at the age of 77 years after a protracted illness which followed an operation last October.

Sir Edward, acknowledged as one of the greatest of all English composers, had the rare experience of being acclaimed a genius during his lifetime.

His three oratorios, "The Dream of Gerontius," "The Apostles" and "The Kingdom" are said to be unique in modern British music and contain many of the composer's English characteristics which made his works appeal to the music-lovers of his generation. Equally as well liked were his other masterpieces, "The Two Symphonies," "The Two Concertos" for violin and cello and "The Enigma Variations."

Sir Edward was made "Master of the King's Music," a post corresponding to that of poet laureate in the realm of literature in 1924, and retained that honor until his death.

In addition he was an Honorary Freeman of the City of Worcester, the recipient of many degrees and honors from continental musical academies. He was a Doctor of Music of Yale University and a Doctor of Laws of the Western University of Pennsylvania.

He was made a Knight of the British Empire in 1904, and received a rarely bestowed decoration, the Order of Merit, in 1911.

Sir Edward was born June 2, 1857, at Exceat, England, almost in the shadow of the famous Worcester Cathedral. His father was an organist at the Roman Catholic Church of St. Georges in Worcester. Sir Edward was the eldest of seven boys and girls.

Although musically inclined from his earliest youth, Sir Edward was unable to take regular lessons and virtually taught himself how to play on various instruments.

When he was about 12 years old he became acquainted with Beethoven's music and the "First Symphony" made such an impression on him that he never lost his admiration for the great composer.

At 15 years of age, Sir Edward became assistant organist to his father. Strangely enough, England's future musical genius first became a director of an orchestra in an insane asylum composed of attendants. He also managed a glee club.

In 1885 he married Major General Sir Henry Gee Roberts' daughter, Caroline Alice, who aided him in his musical work.

London publishers looked askance at Sir Edward's music during two years residence in the capital. It was not until 10 years later that he really began to take his place in the musical world.

His cantatas "King Olaf" and "Caractacus" had a good reception, and fame came in 1900 at the Birmingham festival when his oratorio "The Dream of Gerontius," which is entirely different from the oratorios of the old masters, achieved universal approval. The continuity of this poem is carried on by solos and orchestra. Musical Germany became excited when it was produced in Dusseldorf in 1901, and England was promptly notified that it had a genius in its midst.

Barbering Youngest Art,

Oldest of Professions

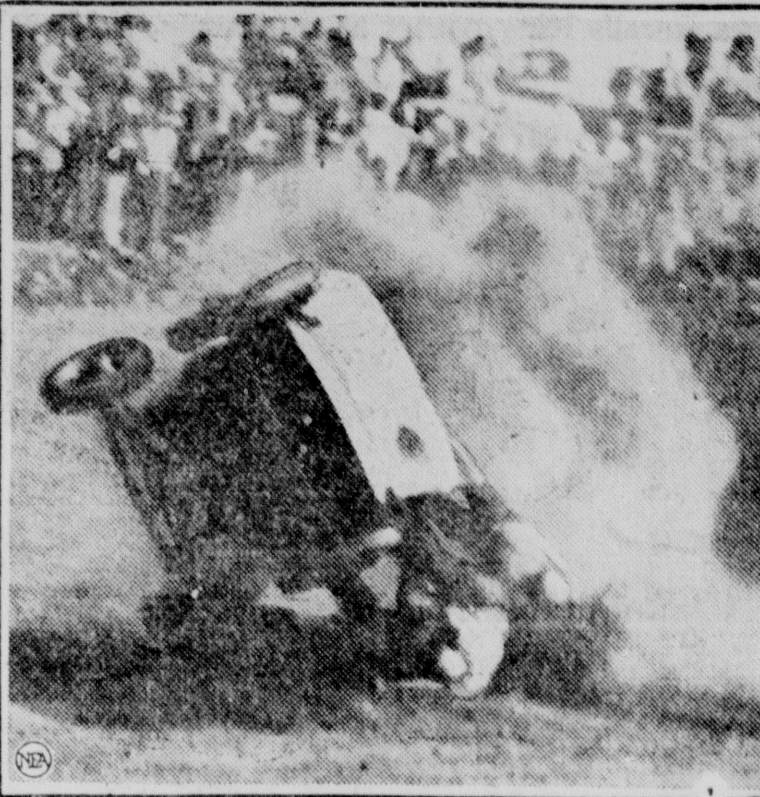

Barbering is the oldest of the professions and the youngest of the arts, says a correspondent in the Modern Thinker. It has seen many vicissitudes. It was indirectly controlled by church and state long before it fell into the hands of the more whimsical decree of fashion, or conflicted in any way with the laws of sanitation.

It was an ancient craft before union shops were thought of, and in some Oriental countries the barber still plies his trade by the roadside, or wherever it is convenient for his patrons to sit.

Barbers were our first surgeons, first dentists and the first to make a practical application of the science of surgery. Combined with these duties, the barber was also a specialist in phlebotomy (the operation of blood-letting), and when under Henry VIII the Company of Barbers was incorporated with the Company of Surgeons, the barbers were still permitted to draw teeth and let blood, while the surgeons were forbidden to do any "barbering."

Albion Ponders Buried Treasure Mystery at Doors

Albion, Ill., Feb. 23.—(AP)—This historic old town, founded by English settlers early in the last century, and the native home of former Governor L. L. Emmerson, is pondering over a buried treasure mystery that has developed at its very door.

The mystery harks back to the farm and famous park house which in the early days was the English manor of George Flower, one of the wealthy founders of the town. It developed when Sheriff Oscar Harper and Cliff Gillard, living a mile south of Albion, examining timbers in a deserted house on what was once the old Flower farm, discovered a freshly dug hole in the ground at the bottom of which was a depression that indicated that it had been the resting place of a buried treasure.

The hole was found a short distance from where the Flower park house stood and is but a few feet from a decaying oak stump.

Beside the hole a metal rod which apparently had been cast aside by the diggers, was found. It is surmised by the natives that the rod had been used to measure the spot of the supposed treasure.

SETTLEMENT OF ROCKFORD WALK OUT IS ORDERED

Lock Company Criticized by National Labor Board

Washington, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The National Labor Board today ordered the strike of the National Lock Company of Rockford, Ill., be ended, that an election among union employees at the plant be held, and that the strikers be returned to their jobs as speedily as is reasonable.

In a decision running more than 3,000 words the labor board criticized the Rockford company for impeding, they said, a reasonable mediation of the labor difficulties.

The strike at the National Lock Company began August 31 with 900 employees, members of a labor union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor walked out. Of that number 400 are still out.

The company obtained an injunction against the strike, but a national board which attempted to hold a hearing November 22, and the National Labor Board disregarding this injunction, held hearings January 24 and 25.

Four Prisons Yawn for Him

Authorities of four jurisdictions are fighting for the custody of Isaac Costner, above, gunman trapped in Baltimore by Basil Banehart, notorious outlaw. Both are wanted in Chicago as suspects in the Factor kidnapping, in Baltimore on concealed weapon charges, in North Carolina for a Charles robbery, and by the federal government for the same crime.

Leaders' Analysis
The revolt leaders analyzed it this way. On the extreme proposal by Senator Hatfield (R. W. Va.) to take off all reductions, 15 Republicans joined 45 Democrats in opposition. Two Democrats and Shipstead (D. Minn.) were in favor.

But on Wednesday's vote to give back $25,000,000 of Federal employees' pay immediately and $189,000,000 on July 1, Republicans voted almost as block and had enough Democratic support to gain a 41 to 40 victory.

The bloc thus figures that on less extreme veterans proposals they can at least make things more interesting. But behind all this, Roosevelt still sits with a probable veto should both Senate and House go too far beyond his wishes.

There was no Senate session today.

MANHATTAN'S SHEPHERD HAS LOST HIS SHEEP

Park Commission Has Ruled Flock Non-essential

New York, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The shepherd of Manhattan has lost his sheep.

For 26 years Frank Hoye tended the flock which grazed on the pastures of Central Park, giving a pleasant pastoral to a distracted city—like the tinkle of a cowbell in the Grand Central Railroad Terminal.

Now the sheep are gone and Hoye is very sad.

The other day the Park Commission decided that municipally-owned sheep were not essential to civic progress. So the sheep were disposed of and the sheep-cote, in which Hoye has lived for more than a quarter of a century, will be turned into a cafe-lamb chops at attractive prices.

Hoye paused awhile in his house-breaking activities today.

"Tsk! Tsk!" he said. "I hate to think of a New York without any sheep. I hate to lose the sheep. I hate to move from here."

"Why, they were the park's biggest attraction. They were educational. For years, school children and their parents have come here to see them. It was their only chance to get an idea of farm life."

Hoye isn't following the Laissez-Faire attitude of Little Bo-Peep. He knows the sheep won't come back, and in a day or two he is being transferred to the Central Park menagerie.

Hoye came into the city's employ with the lambs—he's going out with the lions.

MORE LIBERAL TREATMENT FOR VETERANS AIM

Senate Republicans to Continue Fight to Modify Policies

Washington, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The White House has taken round one in the duel over veterans' expenditures, but a Senate bloc is looking forward to round two.

Monday may see a showdown on proposals by the bigger-benefits Senators to liberalize the Economy Act. Among these plans are pensions for World War widows and orphans and extended payments to Spanish War veterans.

The men behind the Senate uprising against the Economy Act are assured of a closer vote next week than the one they lost yesterday. They failed, 69 to 14, in an attempt to restore all ex-soldier reductions made under the Economy Act. That would have cost up to $300,000,000.

Awaiting action Monday is Roosevelt's compromise proposal. It would liberalize hospitalization and compensation for disabilities that presumably are service-connected.

Leaders' Analysis
The revolt leaders analyzed it this way. On the extreme proposal by Senator Hatfield (R. W. Va.) to take off all reductions, 15 Republicans joined 45 Democrats in opposition. Two Democrats and Shipstead (D. Minn.) were in favor.

Married Flirts

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSEY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married on the same day as LILA HOTAILING and DEREK BLISS, but while Lila lives in luxury Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income.

After Gypsy's son is born her days become a dreary round of caring for him and for her home. She suspects Tom is interested in VERA CLAY who works in the same office.

Lila divorces Derek. Vera finds excuses to see Tom often and one night, after tricking him into taking her home, suggests they run away together. Tom leaves hastily.

Derek, learning Lila divorced him to marry MARKO BROUGHTON, richer and older, comes uninvited to a dinner party given by Lila. Gypsy is there and also BLUNT GIBSON, Derek, who has been drinking, falls from a balcony to the street. Several days later he dies.

Tom and Gypsy quarrel and Tom leaves home. Gypsy has no word from him and when she sends a telegram to his office Vera intercepts the message.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLIV

WHEN Tom Weaver flung himself out into the rain that night he had no least idea where he was going. Anger ruled him for the moment—that and an unacknowledged sense of jealousy and frustration.

He was not conscious, really, of the storm as he plunged out into it. The boy at the apartment switchboard looked at him curiously and said something about a taxi. Tom did not even hear him. He went out, head down, charging like an angry stallion.

There was no direction in his steps, yet after a while, dripping, he found himself outside Grand Central station. The big terminal at this hour was almost deserted. A few desolate souls sat drearily alone in the main waiting room; there were one or two cleaning women about. The whole place had a soul-stirring air of forlornness which suited Tom's mood.

He chose a bench in a corner and sat there, scarcely thinking, steeped in his black despondency.

How long he sat there he never knew, but after a time he was conscious of a new life and movement, a coming and going. It was morning—early, yet indubitably morning.

He bestirred himself. His suit was wrinkled. He needed a shine and he ran his hand over the stubble of a beard.

Well, he would go to the office. Curiously enough, the day before he had parked in his locker there a suit just received from the tailor. He had not remembered to take it home—or rather he had not wanted to carry it all the way to Tarrytown and back. Yesterday, how long ago it seemed.

After a shave and a cup of coffee he felt better. He was a little bit ashamed of himself. The fever of madness that had possessed him was cooling. He found the office deserted and managed to make the change to fresh clothes in his office utterly unmolested.

At 9 o'clock Mr. Clayton bustled in.

"Weaver! You're just the man I want to see. Want you to catch the 11 o'clock for Cleveland."

There were papers to be tucked into the briefcase. Tom had to hurry; he tried to telephone Gypsy (because of course he would have to let her know—he wasn't completely and finally a cad). But the operator said, "Sorry. They do not answer." In her maddening sing-song several times and finally he gave up.

He rushed out. He'd have to buy a change of clothes when he got to Cleveland. Then he'd drop Gypsy a note. He must have been light-headed last night. That drink he had made at Vera's had just set him off. He hadn't had any dinner.

Cost of Battleships

The total cost of constructing a modern battleship is about $27,000,000. The Nevada, commissioned in 1916, cost $12,047,350; the New Mexico, commissioned in 1918, cost $15,182,165; the California, commissioned in 1921, cost $23,576,755; the Colorado, Maryland and West Virginia each cost over $27,000,000.

Tried for Dry Era Slaying

A tragic echo of the prohibition era resounds through federal court in Denver in the trial of Henry Dierks, above, former federal agent, charged with slaying Melford Smith in a scuffle over four ounces of wine in a 1931 raid. The state charged murder against Dierks, who is defended by U. S. attorneys.

to speak of and that green bottle must have contained what the mountaineers called heat-lightning.

ON the train he wrote Gypsy. He told her what hotel he would be at and would she send him things? And he was sorry and would she forgive him? It had all been pretty childish and irrational.

He was disagreeably surprised not to hear from her in a day or two. When he tried to get the apartment by long distance the operator said they did not answer. He knew her family was going to be away so he didn't even try the house in Blue Hills but sent a telegram, instead. It wasn't like Gypsy to ignore all these, but she did and he was rather alarmed. He searched the New York papers for comment on Derek's accident but found none.

He was very busy in Cleveland but he had time to worry about his wife and child, to feel completely cut off from them. He didn't blame Gypsy for sulking. He'd acted like a complete ass. But when he explained all the circumstances of the evening she would understand. He was in a fever of impatience to be back.

This morning, after turning in his reports at the office, he barged up to the apartment. Had Mrs. Weaver returned? The hallway didn't know. But he buzzed the apartment and no one answered. No, there wasn't any mail; at least he hadn't seen any about. Well, that meant that Gypsy had got the letters—and had simply left them unanswered.

Tom thrust his hands into his pockets, frowning. It was darned queer he hadn't got a message of any kind. Well, Gypsy was angry and she had every right to be. He had acted badly. As soon as he'd gone up to the apartment and changed his clothes he'd call her at Blue Hills; take a chance on it, anyhow. After that—well, he didn't know what he'd do.

Fifteen minutes later he was in the subway on his way to the ferry. He had caught sight of two-column headlines on a tabloid story.

"CLUBMAN DIES AFTER TEN-DAY FIGHT FOR LIFE; UNKNOWN WOMAN SOUGHT"

Tom had bought the paper in a fever of excitement. Derek Bliss was dead. In characteristic tabloid fashion the story ran:

"Derek Bliss, clubman and socialite, died at 2:25 a. m. today in Miss Blank's Nursing Home at—Maddison avenue. Bliss, who fell or jumped from the parapet surrounding his ex-wife's penthouse on June 28, was said to be dependent over the divorce, granted in Reno last month. His wife, the socially prominent Lila Hotailing Bliss, is rumored to be contemplating matrimony with Martin Scannell (Marko) Broughton, Wall Street king. Police are hunting for an unknown woman, said to have been with Bliss at the moment he fell from the penthouse roof. Mrs. Hotailing Bliss, said to be in seclusion with friends, is reported to have suffered a nervous breakdown as a result of the tragedy."

Tom groaned. He wouldn't even stop to telephone the house in Jersey. He would rush over there and if Gypsy weren't to be found he would search until he did find her.

THE superintendent of 340 East came into the foyer. "Was that Mr. Weaver I saw here a few minutes ago?"

The hallway looked blank.

"Then you didn't give him the mail?"

PICTURE HIGHLIGHTS IN LIFE OF BELGIAN RULER

Camera Recalls King Albert as Statesman, Soldier, Flying Enthusiast and Sportsman

These pictures of the late King Albert and his family recall some of the highlights in the life of Belgium's beloved ruler. At upper left you see him in Brussels with the late President Wilson and Mrs. Wilson. At that time, King Albert was being hailed as one of the greatest heroes of the World War . . . He carefully trained his son for succession to the throne, and below are pictured Crown Prince Leopold, who will now become King, and his wife, Princess Astrid of Sweden . . . Next in an unusually fine character study of the dead ruler . . . Always daring and progressive, he was the first crowned head in the world to ride in an airplane, and the lower photo shows him in an open-cockpit craft . . . Fond of all sorts of sports, he was trying his skill at archery when the next picture, at top, was snapped . . . But he particularly enjoyed mountain climbing, the hazardous pastime which finally resulted in his death. As the last two photos prove, no scaling adventure was too difficult or perilous for him to attempt. He's shown below resting on a narrow ledge atop Campanile Basso, a peak in the Italian Alps. And at extreme right you see him on his way up an almost vertical cliff in the same mountains.

News From High School This Week

By BRADLEY MOLL

In advance of the customary assembly which heralds an athletic contest, the high school was the scene of another of its student meetings Thursday. Principal B. J. Frazer opened the assembly with an informal discussion on the subject of the conduct of certain individuals at the Junior play last week. By pointing out the number of hours, a great many, spent by the cast and others connected with the play, he deftly impressed the student body, and certain other miscreants, with the fact that sportsmanship everywhere is an asset, and that performances of that type were deserving of every mark of respect.

Athletic Director A. C. Bowers explained the conference golf victory of last year by the Dixon team and presented Harry Lazier, Dick Durkes, John Longman and Elwin Martin, each with a new golf letter, as a symbol of their victory last year.

In accordance with the awarding of letters, Prof. John Weiss, director of the Agricultural Department explained the last sectional meet in which a Dixon team was entered, held Feb. 12. In competition with 19 schools and 270 individuals, the following awards were made:

Group: grain team placed fourth as a group; high individual—Harold Heckman, first in corn judging; Edward Cornish, second in grain judging and Edward Spangler, sixth in poultry judging. This only adds to the long list of wins of the agricultural department in local, state and national competition.

The assembly closed with some excellent cheering and short talks by Coach Sharpe, Miss Kling of the commercial department, Francis "Hank" Henry, mainspring of the squad, "Art" Klein, B team forward, and Dorothy Irey.

Of Dixon visited over the week-end at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Heide.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elliott were Dixon shoppers on Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Gehant were Amboy visitors on Saturday.

Miss Helen Lenihan of Amboy visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hoerner on Sunday.

William Untz summoned a crew of men to his farm adjoining town on Thursday afternoon to help extinguish a prairie fire which had gained considerable headway. William was in the act of burning some stumps when the fire spread to a stubble field and burned off a twenty acre patch.

"Offset" Sheets

The term "offset" is often applied to something utterly different from the actual process of printing. If the freshly printed sheets are not interleaved, the top sheet will pick up the ink from the one below. In this case the design appears in reverse on the back of the sheet. To avoid confusion, this type of "offset" should be termed "smudging" because really it is just that.

"GET ASSASSIN", FRENCH PREMIER TELLS OFFICERS

Reward Is Offered for the Murderer of Judge Albert Prince

By MELVIN WHITELEATHER
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)
(Copyright, 1934, by the Associated Press.)

Paris, Feb. 23 —(AP)—Premier Doumergue called today for the capture, dead or alive, of the mysterious slayer of Judge Albert Prince, "the man who knew all" in the Stavisky banking scandal.

The Premier's order went out after Minister of the Interior Albert Sarraut declared he believed France was in the grip of a "mafia" game determined to block the investigation.

The government offered 100,000 francs (about $6,500) for the arrest and conviction of the slayer.

Belief grew in official circles today that the Judge was murdered because he knew too much. Still police said they were baffled by conflicting tales of the killing.

Bound and mutilated, Judge Prince's body was found on a railway track near Dijon Wednesday. Nearby lay a bloody knife. His briefcase had been rifled.

Was To Have Testified

He had been brutally slain just one day before he was to have testified in an investigation into the collapse of Serge Stavisky's swindlers in which investors lost $40,000,000.

"Inside information" was said to be in Prince's possession. For one thing, he was present back in 1926 when Stavisky was arrested in connection with an earlier promotion. Later, he was in a position to know details involving high officials, who obtained frequent adjournments of the Stavisky hearings.

The Judge's son, Raymond, said he is convinced his father's murder was a political crime.

More than a score of deaths have resulted in one way or another from swindles said to have been engineered by the debonair Stavisky.

All but two of those—Stavisky himself and Judge Prince—died in the anti-government riots which raged in Paris when the full fury of public indignation broke.

These riots raged after bogus bonds, alleged to have been floated by "Handsome Alx" led to revelations of widespread corruption. French institutions generally were threatened. The government was imperiled.
